This is a high narrow house with a steeply pitched A-roof. It is five bays long and has a central door with an overlight. All of the windows are 6/6 sashes. There are three pedimented dormers on the roof with round-arched ^{wooden} tops and corner pilasters. There is a brick chimney built into each end wall of the house. There are basement windows with horizontal bars. At the right end of the house is a 1-1/2 story two bay wide addition. It has an enclosed brick chimney on its right end and, like the main house, has a very steeply pitched A-roof. All of the framing members in the house are rough timbers and still have the bark on them. This house is the center of a prosperous farm. It is well-maintained, and though not restored, is in excellent condition. It is important as one of the few frame 18th century structures found in this county. Most of them are of brick or stone. Very good condition
